DIESEL EXHAUST FLUID

CLEANBLUE® DIESEL EXHAUST FLUID (DEF)

All engines using select catalytic reduction (SCR) technology built after 2010 are equipped with a tank for DEF. From the tank, DEF is routed to the exhaust system where it is injected into the hot exhaust gas stream. The DEF vaporizes, forming into ammonia and carbon dioxide. With the help of the SCR catalysts, ammonia then converts nitrogen oxide to harmless nitrogen and water, which ensures EPA 2010 compliant truck emissions.

TRP® CleanBlue® is certified by the American Petroleum Institute (API). using DEF that is not API certified Poor performance, EPA liability and fouled injectors are a few problems that can result from.

Safe to handle and store, TRP CleanBlue is non-toxic and non-hazardous. If stored in moderate temperatures, shelf life can be in excess of one year. In either hot or cold extremes, shelf life can degrade to 6 months. Outside storage is not recommended.
